* HISTORY * OF * '87. *

CHAPTER I.

"Much on my early youth I love to dwell."

LIKE the imperishable monuments of the East, towering in awful majesty, mocking at the efforts of time and beholding with sublime compassion the pigmies of more recent creation, so does the grand and glorious class of '87, from its pinnacle of fame, gaze upon the surroundings. And what does it behold? That true and genuine class-spirit, that commendable enthusiasm, that almost martial activity so predominant in the days of our entrance? No. In its stead, a mild and questionable sluggishness, a cool and calm indifference, a deterioration from our former brain ideal, an innocuous desuetude.

And why? Can any just cause be assigned for this decline? This, you will say, and justly too, is no place for a philosophic discussion, and for that very reason the boundaries of that science will be avoided. Yet we know, or if ignorant of the fact, a few moments' contemplation will show us conclusively that with our present surroundings class-spirit must be a thing of the past. Present circumstances and conditions, the eminent practicality of all our aims is everything but conducive to the harboring of even the ghost of that once colossal fame. Yes, it is rapidly fading away, and in a few short years will exist only as a college tradition, a mournful skeleton of its former self, naught remaining of its once vast proportions but a doubtful and empty remembrance. To those who have entered more recently, only its spasmodic twitchings and dying gasps have been visible. The shriveled, emaciated frame arouses no sympathy from those who knew it not in the days of its health and vigor: rather does it provoke their contempt, and heart and hand then unite to prevent its still feeble pulsations.

The period marking the beginning of this decline can with little difficulty be traced to the entrance of '88. To them, however, the fault is not imputed, far from it. As could easily have been shown, by the philosophy eliminated above, other forces have been at work. President, Faculty, Parents, and Public Opinion all share the glory of its destruction.

Whether it is not all for the better is a question which might bear discussion, but certain it is that when its last breath has been drawn, and with suppressed sorrow and indignation we mourn o'er its ashes, we will not fail to see the Genius of Learning arise from its funeral pyle: learning with wings of practicality and judgment, practicality so eminent, and judgment so profound that when we have entered the coming contest of life, the grand old name of LEHIGH shall blaze forth amidst the glistening orbs of intellectuality as a star of the first magnitude.

CHAPTER II.

"Heard ye the din of battle bray,
Lance to lance, and horse to horse."

To enter into the innumerable details of the various valorous exploits of '87, would fill the most excellent volume of which this humble narrative forms a part. Nor will the diverse occasions be recounted upon which the Bronze and Silver waved victoriously, and the gallant war cry L-3-X-V-2-I-'87-LEHIGH was heard echoing far above the infantile din of our despairing foes. That has been the duty of historians of former years.

The unparalleled success attained in everything undertaken can only be attributed to union of action and grim determination. Never was class as free from "kickers." They could not be tolerated. One and only one found his way into the ranks of the dauntless. His demise was as mysterious as it was sudden and effectual, and he now sleeps calmly and peacefully, unmourned beneath the sod of Shanty Hill. For corroboration of any facts herein chronicled, we can but refer the reader to contemporaneous writers.

Ask them how brilliantly and gallantly we stormed the gates of old Fort Packer, even in the midst of our verdancy. Ask them of the treatment of the base-born hirelings who attempted to dampen our spirits on the memorable day of our Photographic Triumph. Interrogate farther, and acquaint yourself if possible with the mystery of their escape from a watery grave.

"Oh! such a day,
So fought, so followed and so fairly won."

It may be well, kind reader, should you desire to become thoroughly familiar with the history of this remarkable epoch, to farther catechise our still existing references as to the storming of their Pandemonium at Castle Dickson, as to the interruption of their Bacchanalian feast, and as to the unsolved problem of "What became of the beer?"

"For lager, lager everywhere,
And all their throats did shrink,
Lager, lager everywhere,
Nor any drop to drink."

To the glorious memories of our class suppers, we will only allude. The imbecilic attempts to prevent them are unworthy of more than mention. To the countless other thrilling incidents space will not even permit an allusion, and the reader must again be referred to some other sources.

Do not think for a moment, after reading the preceding that such pursuits occupied an appreciable amount of time during our college course. Indeed not. Suffice it to say, there is not a single man in the class at present who ever flunked out. In the Olympian Games our escutcheon is as yet unequalled in brilliancy, the laurel wreath adorning more brows in '87 than in any class that has preceded it. Everything undertaken has proved a success, and we can only hope that in after-life our individual efforts may be as fortunate, and that when the Winter of existence will be upon us we may be able to look back upon a well-spent professional life with as much satisfaction as we do upon our college course.

CHAPTER III.

"Farewell! thou can'st not teach me to forget"

The brightest sunshine must inevitably become the darkness of night. Sadness must arise in our hearts. For in but a little while and this brilliant pageant will have passed, this triumph will have ended, and '87 will be no more. We who for so long have been together, we who have fought the same battles, overcome the same difficulties, shared the same victories, must soon prepare to part. To the four quarters of the globe we go, many of us perhaps never to meet again. It is sad even to think of it. Such it has been with those who have gone before us, such it must be with us. Many friendships have been formed here, not only among classmates, but also among others. Some of them are tender and endearing, but all must suffer alike. Perhaps we can hope that circumstances may enable us to renew them in the future. However that may be, the memory of our attachments can never die. We can rest assured that in this distant future, when surrounded by the cares of business or profession, we will hear the names of those, who as they climb from rock to rock on the mountain of fame will bring back to our clouded recollections the happy memories of our college days.

We have played our part in this drama of college life. Four times we have appeared upon this self-same stage, and contributed our part to the entertainment. This time is our last, and we take occasion to extend to our esteemed President and Faculty our most sincere and heartfelt thanks for all their labors in our behalf. Of the many acts of kindness and earnest endeavors of the people of the Bethlehems to render pleasant our brief existence in their community, we express our highest appreciation. And now the last chapter in the History of '87 has been written.

"The play is done—the curtain drops,
Slow falling to the prompter's bell ;
A moment yet the actor stops,
And looks around to say FAREWELL."

* HISTORY * OF * '88. *

“HISTORY is Biography,” says a great writer, so that could I tell the story of each individual’s ambitions, resolves, realizations and disappointments, I would then have really written the history of the Class of ’88. But space forbids giving each one his due. The period of time spent in college constitutes a distinct era in the life of a man, for it is the transition period from the happy carelessness and buoyancy of youth to the deep seriousness of the future which brings responsibilities, and must be entered upon with earnest resolve.

We came here nearly three years ago with little knowledge of the difficulties to be overcome in pursuing a college course at Lehigh. We numbered 131 men, the largest class ever entered. Strong in numbers, and with the tenderness of all green things, we fell an easy prey to the Faculty’s onslaughts. At the end of the Sophomore year our number was about 70. “O what a fall was there.” Some fell by the wayside “choked with thorns,” others were unequal to the task of climbing the hill of knowledge, from whose top could be seen the promised land of the future, while the remainder strengthened by success and impelled by strong hopes traveled on avoiding the pitfalls and snares so dextrously planned to trap the unwary.

Those who have kept in the onward path have not failed to bring honor to the University, and to their class. In scholarship we can take rank with those previous classes, which have added so greatly to the credit of the University. We can lay claim to having among us the only man who has yet been able to master perfectly Wood's Mechanics, an achievement worth some notice when the parsimony with which the marks are dealt out in that and kindred subjects is considered.

June 23, 1886, we burned our arch enemy—Calculus—after a long struggle in which some failed, and others succeeded on the principle of Nelson, "Never mind the justice or the impudence only let me succeed." Although the elements fought for poor old Calculus on that fateful night, yet the fires of our wrath were not extinguished until he was completely consumed.

As a class-history is never complete without some reference to such amusements as class-suppers, cane-rushing and the like, it may be well to recall the class-supper of last year at Dixon's Hall, in which '89 took an inglorious part.

They came prepared to conquer, and '87 with them prepared to eat the supper. The perseverance and determination of '89 would have been commendable in a worthier cause. Their efforts proved expensive and caused them some "sore feelings," but the ludicrous side of the affair appears in their furious attempt to obtain the supper, which the gourmands of '87 were waiting to appropriate upon their succeeding. '88 paid for the supper, and ate it.

In athletics we have won an honorable place. We have contributed much to success in foot-ball, having furnished several of the best players on the University team during last season. The college championship was won last season by '88's team. While here so much has been done, the class has not failed to attain marked success in general athletics. Of base-ball, the less said perhaps the better, but though so little success has been won "on the diamond," '88 has always taken a strong interest in it, and furnished good men to fill the most important positions on the University team.

There is yet one more year for us to remain under the loving care and at the tender mercies of the Faculty. We have heard them say to us earnestly, "Oh! ye simple, understand wisdom," and by a judicious use of natural gifts and artificial appliances we have obtained a small supply of that useful article. At the end of the coming year we hope to be fully prepared to dispose of this article of commerce, knowledge, to the highest bidder, and that we may all live to enjoy the substantial fruits of our knowledge is the earnest wish of

THE HISTORIAN.

* HISTORY OF '89.*

F, in the felicitous exuberance of my irrepressible genius, I give forth many and eloquent words¹ concerning the glory of my class, be assured that it is from no desire to necessitate the revival of that old definition of a sophomore as an individual who considers himself pre-eminently omniscient, but merely from a most intense feeling of satisfaction of knowing that my opinion as to class histories in general and sophomore history in particular is the same as that entertained by no less a personage than the Father of History.² Yes, somewhere in his immortal works, Herodotus states that his experience as historian of his class in college strengthened his belief that class histories are poor affairs unless they contain allusions of a most joyous character to certain gastronomic events known in modern times as class suppers.

In fact, I find that in fulfilling my duty as an historian to simply narrate the events in which my class has taken a more or less important part, the first subject I have to deal with is a supper³ and, strange⁴ to say, that of the Class of '88. To explain any seemingly presumption⁵ or appropriation in bringing this into my history, it will suffice to say that '89 took a more or less active part in this memorable event; more active if you adopt as a standard of activity the idea of surrounding a banquet hall in the endeavor to keep without those who had engaged to get within and dispose of the spread awaiting them; less active if this standard is the exultant disposition of said spread. For the part '89 did play on that occasion she has received at some hands nothing but censure. I will not proceed to justify our actions⁶; they were, to my mind at least, in the natural course of human events. Considering the lack of a cane rush, a rupture in a physical sense between us and '88 was inevitable. The upper classmen were anxious for it, as their conduct in the matter proved⁷, we were ready⁸ for it; and that the Sophomores expected it is clearly demonstrated by their coming to the scene habilitated⁹ in foot-ball suits and other garments¹⁰ not generally utilized on similar occasions.

Soon after this, the Winter Sports occurred¹¹. We gave satisfactory evidence of our athletic propensities by taking first prize in the running and standing high jumps, horizontal-bar and vaulting and, above all, our tug-of-war team showed itself to be better than the same institution in the Sophomore Class by some twenty-one inches. In the Spring Sports we succeeded in maintaining a high stand¹².

After the excellent¹³ Cremation ceremonies of the Sophomores we buried the hatchet (which, by the way, had never been deeply tinged with gore¹⁴) with '88 in the old and customary Knickerbocker fashion.

³ Be careful; you tried to deal with it once before and flunked.

⁴ It seems strange that you mention it.

⁵ Explanation unnecessary. We are prepared for anything.

⁶ Too much even for his irrepressible genius.

⁷ Undoubtedly. They wanted a supper for nothing.

⁸ But not very anxious.

⁹ Habilitement is the word he should have used.

¹⁰ You misunderstood. The costumes were worn simply for the picturesque effect.

¹¹ But not as a natural consequence.

¹² Prizes were too numerous to mention, especially in tug-of-war.

¹³ Thanks! Thanks!! Thanks!!!

¹⁴ Take Dougherty's testimony.

In ascending the ladder of college life from the round of a Freshman to that of a Sophomore, most of us succeeded admirably¹⁵; a few, however, wearied from their endless exertions¹⁶, were unequal to the effort. These we regretted to leave, especially as they will now be compelled to climb upward amid such inferior surroundings.

During the summer vacation, an esteemed classmate was taken from us by drowning—the first thing to cast a gloom over our buoyant spirits.

On returning to College last Fall we found assembled on the lower round of the ladder, awaiting our fostering care, a motley¹⁷ band of Freshmen. It would scarcely be considered within the bounds of propriety for a natural protector to hand down to his posterity a careful and correct analysis of his charge's character, particularly if he is aware that such a proceeding would render but too clear the inferior¹⁸ qualities of the aforesaid charge. To preserve a free conscience,¹⁹ therefore, let us pass to a consideration of that fostering care and faithful erudition which we bestowed upon them.

By winning the cane rush one evening about the commencement of the year, although far inferior to them in point of numbers, we were enabled to instill into their minds the fact that a cane is not an essential article of a Freshman's attire and that in the present instance it was not deemed best to depart from the general rule.

The next opportunity afforded for the continuance of this prosperous course of instruction was on the foot-ball field. In the first game, the instructors playing with very little spirit while the learners exhibited marvelous dash and skill,²⁰ the result was a tie; but in the second game our team settled down to imparting the points in such a vigorous manner that the score at the end was 52-0.

As Christmas approached it occurred to us that it would be a pleasant and graceful thing, affording at the same time a refreshing deviation

¹⁵ Some of you crawled up the "back way" without being caught

¹⁶ With a balky horse.

¹⁷ Different from your class—you were all one color (green).

¹⁸ Sarcastic.

¹⁹ We fear yours has become petrified.

²⁰ Ely was there.

from the monotony of studious routine²¹, to give the Freshmen a Christmas tree. In accordance with this, one evening towards the last of the term, we succeeded in getting a good sized evergreen²² up into the Chapel. Bedecked with candy canes, appropriate inscriptions and numbers of those trinkets so dear to every true freshmanic heart, it was firmly planted in the front gallery. Early the next morning, the trusty James entering the Chapel espied, with his eagle optics²³, our offering to '90's shrine. But James, either failing to discern in it a manifestation of our thoughtful and philo-freshanthropic spirit or impelled by a quaking fear of the wrath of the gods forthwith applied himself to the task of releasing the tree and at length, by dint of much exertion, succeeded in toppling it from its lofty height to the depth of the room below²⁴. Nothing daunted by this, we accomplished our purpose a few days later in hanging the tree from the top of the chapel where neither Fidus Achates nor the gods themselves could reach it. By this display of our persistency and magnanimity, a grateful memory of the '89 will no doubt ever linger in the minds of the present Freshmen.

The happiest allusion I could make to our Class Supper, which occurred on February 11, would be in mentioning the fact that probably a larger percentage of members were present than ever attended the supper of a class not graduating²⁵—a thing which goes to show the entire good-will and feeling amongst us.

A few days before Washington's Birthday we issued a proclamation²⁶ granting the Freshmen the privilege of carrying canes. I refrain from dwelling upon their actions in connection with this matter, inasmuch as they were condemned enough at the time.

Herodotus, with whom I agreed in a salient point at the beginning

²¹ Is this the explanation of that mystery? How easily your minds are deviated from "studious routine."

²² If it was only an evergreen you wanted, why didn't you put up F—rw—ll.

²³ Poetic license allowed all great writers.

²⁴ It is a pity you could not bring your language down to a level with the subject; although it is very low.

²⁵ Free lunches always attract large crowds.

²⁶ You ought to know that this sort of thing has gone into "innocuous desuetude."

of this history, maintains that it is far better for the historian, when he has completed his task, to throw down his quill at once and not indulge in any effusive passages. I agree with him, but go a step farther and hand over the quill to my successor with the hope—which I have no doubt will be fully realized judging from what '89 has accomplished thus far—that the records of as successful a year may flow from it while in his hands as did while in mine²⁷.

HISTORIAN.

²⁷ The panorama is completed. After having exhibited all his curiosities, and made a show of himself, he tardily but wisely stops—turn the crank, John.

* HISTORY * OF * '90. *

ON the 15th of September, 1886, one hundred and twenty-five men assembled on the campus of Lehigh University. This composed the Class of '90, which had come to fill the vacancy left open by the graduating class. How well we can fill that vacancy, if we can fill it, time alone can tell.

The usual Chapel rush was forbidden by "Prex," but, nevertheless, a little squabbling took place at the bottom of the stairs of Packer Hall. At 3.24 o'clock, however, we had entered the Chapel, and thenceforward were to be recognized as students of Lehigh University. From all appearances we had expected to be the largest class that had ever entered Packer Hall, but appearances were deceptive, and instead we were obliged to acknowledge the supremacy of '88 in that respect.

The first obstacle that we encountered was the Sophomores in a well-organized cane-rush. The night of the 21st of September will long be remembered in the history of Lehigh, as the occasion of one of the best organized and stubbornly contested rushes between two of her classes. Urged on by the Juniors, who lighted our footsteps, we marched from the Electric Light Works to the open space in the Lehigh & Susquehanna freight yards and there awaited the coming of '89. "They came, they saw, they unfairly conquered," only, however, after a half hour's hard fighting. At the end of that time the Senior Class thought that "time" should be called and demanded the cane. Much to our chagrin it was awarded to '89, no notice of our men being taken. Such cowardly actions as were exhibited by some of the Sophomores should be looked down upon by all students who desire to see fair play. But in spite of this we worked well together, and had we known each other we certainly would have made a better showing, if not have won the cane. The setback, thus received at the outset of our voyage through college life, was very discouraging to our hopes.

Our hopes were brightened and fears dispelled, however, by the football field. It was well known that there were several promising football men in our class and a lively interest was taken in the game. Our first match with the Sophomores was one of the most exciting games ever witnessed on Lehigh's grounds. Ample proof of our ability was shown in that game. When the tie was played off, the absence of several of our best men so weakened our team that it was an easy matter for '89 to win the game from us, while thus handicapped.

As usual in the Fall Sports, after having won two firsts and four seconds, thus playing ourselves second, our ill-luck followed us. Through ignorance of bicycle racing rules the judges awarded the bicycle race to '89.

The only remark that can be made about the proclamation issued on Founder's Day is as the Lehigh Burr remarks: "The pro bono publico proclamation, which was put in the hands of the spectators at the Fall Sports, possibly with the praiseworthy intention of entertaining them during necessary delays, far from provoking even a smile rather unpleasantly reminded one that Sophomores of to-day, as well as of those of the olden time, 'are but children of a larger growth.'"

The notice of '89's class supper served its purpose by exposing their action. With their usual tact (?) they bribed the "muckers" of Nazareth and had any demonstration been made against them we probably would have had to fight all Nazareth.

The proclamation issued by the Sophomores on Washington's Birthday was of no consequence. This direct copying of theirs after other classes is becoming one of their accomplishments; we hope if ever they are obliged to issue any other proclamation they will be original, if not humorous.

As for honors we can already boast of men on the University Choir, Glee Club and also on the Foot Ball Team. Considerable literary talent has been shown, and there are many striving for a place on the Board of Editors of the Lehigh Burr.

Our prospects for base-ball are even brighter than were those of football. We all expect '90 to retrieve some of her laurels on the diamond which she lost on the foot-ball field.

We have done fairly well as a class, and hope that we may be able to fill up the gap left open by '86. That more laurels may be added to Ninety's crown, and that the class may ever follow its motto "Ne tentes aut perfice" is the ardent wish of the

HISTORIAN.

❖❖❖ CREMATION. ❖❖❖

AS the college year drew toward its close, the class of '88 began to appreciate the fact that the time was near when the most of its number were to bid adieu to Olney's Calculus. Nearer and nearer came the time, and, as we thought of the parting which must soon come, we anticipated the feelings we then would have, and decided that the occasion should be observed in an appropriate manner.

When we attempted to express our thoughts, we found that the English language utterly failed, and that in no other words than those of the beautiful Japanese language could we express our feelings at such a time.

In acceptance of the invitations issued in the Japanese language, a large crowd of guests assembled on the evening of June 24 to witness the exercises so full of meaning to those participating in them. At nine o'clock the procession formed in line at the Halls, preparatory to marching to the spot selected for the building of the pyre. Following the band came four Japanese warriors in full armor; then a tablet upon which was engraved the name of the deceased; following this the orators, and then the priest, walking under an umbrella borne by a devoted Jap. After the urn for the ashes of the departed, came the bier, borne by eight stalwart bearers, followed by the many intimate associates of the deceased.

Keeping step to "The Dead March in Saul," and lighted by colored fires and torches, the procession made the tour of the Campus and then slowly wended its way through the crowded streets of South Bethlehem, across the bridge to Bethlehem, and, after many detours, to the spot selected for the ceremonies. As we neared the spot, our hearts were filled with the solemnity of the occasion, and our looks and even our step betrayed the deep feeling within our breasts.

As we lighted the pyre the heavens, which all the while had seemed to be holding back their anger, now began to deluge us with their pent-up wrath, and we were obliged to seek the shelter of a neighboring inn. But ere we left the burning coffin, the lid burst off and up sprang a veritable Japanese demon, waving the much-hated Calculus in his hand and threatening direful vengeance upon us or our successors. However, not even the thought that '89 would have to suffer for the revenge we were taking, could at that moment deter us from allowing the flames to continue their work of destruction. Gradually the destroying element rose higher and higher, caught our old enemy, and soon the much-thumbed book fell a mass of charred leaves. Then, light of heart and light of step, we turned away from the smouldering embers, rejoicing in the thought that at last we were well rid of Olney's Calculus.

* ATHLETICS * AT * LEHIGH. *

IT last THE EPITOME is fortunate enough to chronicle some good results of Lehigh's athletics. Already has the benefit of the Athletic Association clearly dawned upon us. Now we are able to see the immense advantage of having the interests of all departments of athletics concentrated in one body.

Never in the brief history of our institution have the men, one and all, supported her athletic interests so freely as during the past year.

In the sports there has been a decided improvement, both as to a greater number of entries, and hence harder contested for and better records. During the past year four college records have been broken, and at the Winter meeting the contests were held two days on account of the number of entries.

At the several contests held last Spring at New York and Philadelphia the few men we entered did fairly well.

At the sports of the First Regiment, at Philadelphia, we took first in the half mile run, and second in the four forty.

At the Inter-Collegiate and Inter-State our men did not come home with laurels, nevertheless, we were all encouraged greatly by the work they did.

From present indications, large classes and hard training, we will soon be able to take a decided step in this branch of our college work.

Last Fall, on the foot-ball field, our team made a better record than the most hopeful had prophesied for it. Only four points were scored against us on our grounds, and of seven games played we only lost two.

The principal reason of this success between the goals was the training and enthusiasm the series of class games afforded. These were the direct cause of the "boom" and the development of so much good material; that notwithstanding the loss of five of her heaviest men by graduating our team next Fall will be the best Lehigh has ever turned out.

Our Lacrosse Team, although young in years, has succeeded in keeping the scores of the few games low and close. The game increases in popularity each year, and, like the other branches of athletics, receives a hearty support.

In base-ball the system of class games for the prize cup has awakened much interest. The practice obtained from a series of eighteen games will be of the greatest value in selecting the best material in College for the University nine. And there is scarce a doubt in our minds but that Lehigh will show as much improvement on the diamond over her last year's record as she has shown between the goals.

Lehigh has long felt the need of a good live college paper, and she is to be congratulated on the appearance, in the near future, of the Weekly Advocate. The distinguished editors begin their duties with a high enthusiasm and disinterested effort to please the students—beautiful to see.—
Niagara Index.

We look forward complacently to the immediate withdrawal of all our rivals from the journalistic field.

Although much averse to giving offense to the editors of rival publications, we feel compelled to say that the action of one of our contemporaries, in rejecting the poems of a well known author, is highly reprehensible.
We are at a loss to know whether it was gross ignorance or personal enmity which led to the rejection of poems of such great merit.

FROM THE CONSTITUTION OF
THE ADVOCATE.

ARTICLE IV.
Section 1. No person shall be eligible to membership on the editorial staff of the Lehigh
Weekly Advocate who has ever been connected in any manner whatsoever with the college organ known as the Lehigh
Burr, who has ever sought a position on said Burr board of editors either by contributing articles or otherwise. And no person who has not a natural gift for writing poetry or who has more than one condition in any regular course of the Lehigh University, shall be eligible to membership. But any person otherwise qualified may become an editor, who, when too heavily burdened with conditions, has succeeded in obtaining a special course.

A LUNATIC'S VISION.
Life's a weary care to thee,
Spake to me my empty brain,
As one eve I listless sat
Glaring through the busted pane.
And the mill hands from the iron works
Waded home through mud
and slush,
And from Shanty Hill, the civils
Made for supper with a rush.
Hope within me seemed to waver
As I thought of this and that,
And I dreaded that at the doorway
A fate of sadness sat.
Sat there hungry, sat there
silent,
Sat there for eternity,
Wrapped in ragged clothes and
darkness,
When a happy cheery voice
Cried out, "Slug the referee," Pooh Bah.

HIGH DIDDLE DIDDLE!
High diddle diddle the cat and the fiddle,

The cow jumped over the moon;
The Freshman laughed to see
such sport,
He dropped his bottle which broke with a snort,
A Soph ran off with the spoon.

The Freshman wept a long,
long sigh,
He wiped his eyes with his
bib;

The cat licked the milk, the Pa
licked the boy,
The Sophomore bought a crib.

KERNELS.

Shane, '88, has left college on account of his eyes. He expects to return next season.

The thesis of J. W. Richards,
'86, on "Aluminium, the Metal of the Future," has been published and is very highly spoken of by all Engineering papers.

R. H. Davis, '86, has written a story for St. Nicholas, called "Richard Carr's Baby." It has been highly praised.

W. W. Mills, '87, formerly business editor of our esteemed college contemporary, has been made editor in chief of the Bethlehem Daily Times.

Dr. Swain has had various members of the Freshman class photographed. The object is to compare their conditions yearly.

R. H. Davis, formerly of the Burr, has accepted an editorship on the Philadelphia Press.
Massenburg, '88, has left college on account of his health.

The gymnasium is expected to be finished and ready for occupancy by May 20. '83 will graduate in it.

A. K. Leuckel is dramatic editor of the South Bethlehem
Daily Star.

 EDITORIAL. ***

A SHORT sketch of the college events for the year ending, might be interesting and instructive both to our Alumni and undergraduates. The changes that have taken place, with a very few exceptions, have been for the better and point to the prosperous condition of the University.

The new Memorial Church which is fast approaching completion, will add much to the striking beauty of our campus, while the new Hydraulic Laboratory now finished and equipped makes a very useful addition to the departments of civil and mechanical engineering.

The growth of the University and changes in the curriculum have necessitated extensive additions and changes in the corps of instructors; these have not failed to give general satisfaction. We would, however, modify this statement in regard to the new Director of the Gymnasium, who has indeed been unsuccessful in winning the esteem of the students.

The only comment we have to make regarding the actions of the classes falls to the lot of '89. We are extremely sorry that the custom of hazing, abolished over two years ago, was revived by this class and we do not hesitate to say that we voice the sentiments of the upper classes, when we brand this act of theirs as cowardly and disgraceful, and indeed hope it will never be repeated by future classes.

At the present day there is no better way to judge of the rank and position of a college than by the number and character of Fraternities there represented. Lehigh has presented a field which is fast being taken up. To the list as given last year we note the following additions, making a total of ten: Phi Gamma Delta, Sigma Phi, and Phi Delta Theta; to all we give a hearty welcome with a wish for their future success. A chapter of the Sophomore Society of Theta Nu Epsilon also appeared toward the end of last year.

We deeply feel the honor bestowed on our Alma Mater by the last Convention of the Honorary Fraternity of Phi Beta Kappa in granting her a charter, which will greatly benefit the students in the literary courses.

We beg to differ with last year's EPITOME BOARD in regard to the position of the Honorary Society of Tau Beta Pi. A flimsy reason was given by them for placing it first in the list of College Fraternities. We have placed it in company with Phi Beta Kappa immediately after Fraternities. Our reason for not placing them with Fraternities needs no explanation to the average mind: we place them in their present position because in our opinion it is the proper place, contrary to the dictations of several of our esteemed professors.

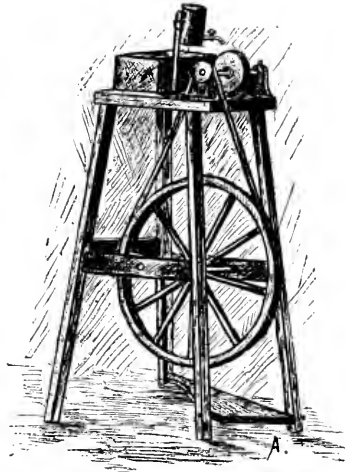

As the subject of athletics deserves more than a casual mention, it is treated in a separate article.

The college publications all seem to be in a flourishing condition. The Burr is still the only exponent of the college in the way of a college paper: the much talked of bi-monthly having never put in its appearance. We have noticed a marked improvement in the contents of the Engineering Journal and the society is to be highly complimented on the character of the papers read before it.

We take advantage of this article to say a few words about our book—EPITOME, VOL. XIII. We have endeavored to collect all matters of interest that go to make up a student's life and a college world, and put them in a shape worthy of preservation. We hope no one will be offended, for we have tried to lay all personal feelings aside, but have not hesitated to take advantage of our position to show characters in the light in which they are seen.

In securing advertisements we have been less fortunate than our predecessors, nevertheless our aim has been to make this volume, in every particular, reach which standard that everywhere characterizes Lehigh's annual.

Our work is now finished, we hand the volume over to you for your criticism, with the hope you will find it worthy your support.

❖❖ GRINDS. ❖❖

DR. FREMONT SW — N.—“ Well, Mr. Crawford, Dr. Lamberton may excuse these absences, for he wants to be popular among the students, but that ain’t my style.”

HART, ’88, (Report on boilers).—“ These are made specially fer to make the gas raise.”

BRAVO, ’89.—“ They criticise my English, but I speak a great deal righter than what they do.”

STOKES, ’88.—“ A gram of hydrogen weighs 0.0896 grams.”

MACKINTOSH.—(To late comer). “ Your name, please ? ”

LATE COMER.—“ Mr. Perry.”

SMYTH, '89. — (Declaiming). “He was a bowery boot-black bold.”

DR. RINGER. — “Mr. Fenner, will you read?”

LEUCKEL. — “Do you mean me, Doctor?”

HOLLINSHEAD, '90. — “This is not a precipitate, for it does not fall clear to the bottom of the test-tube.”

STOKES, '88. — “Is this re-examination five dollars?”

PROF. MERRIMAN. — “Yes! yes!! yes!!! yes!!!!” (Stokes wilts).

WENDLE, '90. (Looking at a Fraternity pin). “When will the Freshmen get their class pins?”

FINIS OF GLOVER'S ESSAY. — “Let the band play a malarial air.”

PROF. DOOLITTLE TO DRAVO, '88. — “What is that document you are conning so diligently, Mr. Dravo?”

LEUCKEL. — “And how about my literary abilities?”

PHRENOLOGIST. — “Very poor, indeed.”

LEUCKEL. — “Why I have written for the South Bethlehem Star for two years.”

MACKINTOSH. — “Gracious, but your hand is awful dirty, Mr. Perry.”

WIECHARDT, '87. (Reading a sign in New York). — “Taxidermist.”
“Oh yes, a Taxidermist is a collector of coins.”

PRINDLE, '89. (To Dr. Lambertson, Feb. 22, '87). — “Please may I go out?”

AS IN THE ORIGINAL OF THE METALLURGY PROBLEM: — “Let the velocity of the gases in the chimney be 5 m. per second.”

AS IN MR. DRAVO '88'S COPY. — “Let the velocity of the gases in the chimney be 5 miles per second.”

“NEWBY: Let all those things stay behind your trunk. My father is coming.” CARTER.

STOKES '88.—“Prof. Frazier, I don't quite catch on to the crystal lization of this mineral.”

PROF. MERRIMAN.—“Thaddeus, how many degrees of pie shall I give you?”

THAD. (A chip of the old block).—“Three hundred and sixty.”

BARCOCK.—“It's all right; I don't know where I live, but Butterworth does.”

MACKINTOSH, seeing the word “Balloon” at the top of Stokes' board asks, “Is that your name?”

PERRY, '88.—“How many liters in a metre, Mr. Mackintosh?”

C. H. STEVENSON, '90.—“Dr. Lamberton, here is my fifty cents for a key to the fire-escape.”

HOLLINSHEAD, '90.—“Can you use the same filter paper more than once?”

WENDLE, '90.—“What is the Principal's name?”

BARCLAY, '90.—“My manganese would always run through until I used two dT filter papers.”

A NEW DISCOVERY BY ABELL, '90.—“A tangent can be drawn to a circle from a point within.”

HESSE, THE LONG, A.C., '89.—(Declaiming) “Mr. Clay remarked —, Mr. Clay remarked —,” (Sits down.)

DANIELS.—“Now Swain—now Mr. Swain—”

SWAIN.—(Interrupting). “Please, call me Doctor.”

D.—“Why?”

S.—“That is my title.”

D.—“Well, we'll talk about that afterwards.”

ABELL'S REVISION OF OLNEY'S UNIVERSITY ALGEBRA.—(Extract).
“Zero is a finite quantity, for in passing from plus infinity to minus infinity you pass through all finite values; and as you pass through zero, therefore zero is a finite quantity.” Q. E. D.

JUNIOR.—“I was nearly wild for I could hardly get my Siemens’ regenerator out of my pocket.”

DOUGHERTY, '89. (Translating verbatim from the English Edition of “Bilderbuch.”)—“Her feet were bare, the black petticoat and the little chemise sleeves were in tatters.” Dr. Ringer misunderstands. “Och Meester Dougherty, did you ever see a chimney with sleeves?”

FRESHMAN. (Just before Easter).—“Is that a painting of Asa Packer in the Library? I thought it was Abraham Lincoln.”

PRATT, '90. (Notice on bulletin board).—“Lost; a knife, please return, as it was given to me by a diseased friend.”

DOUGHERTY, '89.—“Why is the front mule muzzled?”

PROF. MERRIMAN IN NEW YORK TO SENIOR.—“Did you take Reissler to see Ed. Stokes’ saloon?”

FINNEY.—I’ve been trying all the morning to divide the circumference of a circle into six equal parts, and I can’t do it.

'89 MAN.—Why didn’t you apply one of the radii six times.

F.—“There were so many of them, I didn’t know which one to take.”

DAMSEL TO WILKENS, '87, AT N. Y.—“How’s papa’s boy?”

JOHNSTON TO NEW LIBRARY KID.—“Have you any Bauhm-wadd?”

KID.—“Who is it by?”

FRANKLIN, '88.—“How in —— do you add decimals?”

••• THE •• “TECHS.” •••

Freshmen enter all together
 In a homogeneous mass;
 Hearts and heads are light as feather,
 Carelessly they “flunk” or “pass.”
 Soon the courses are diverging,
 Partly severed is the chain;
 Civil, Miner,—each is urging
 His own course with might and main.

The “Mechanical” now “centers”
 All his thoughts on “higher pairs;”
 Says Professors and inventors,
 Are “eccentric;” and declares
 That the truth he will uncover
 And a new “Machine design”
 Which will help us to discover
 Every sort of “cranks” in Kline.

“Civil” luckily “located”
 You’re a “Merriman,” tis plain;
 For old Olney you’ve cremated
 Bound to “stake” with “tape” and “chain.”
 “Plot” with “foresight” “transitory,”
 And “survey” the world with glee
 Un“encompassed” is your glory,
 “Level”-headed, gay C.E.

Chemists in the lab'ratory
Stir and filter, mix and boil ;
Theirs is a pathetic story
Of a life of constant toil ;
But the irksome "bonds " they'll sever,
And with haste " precipitate."
Every Chemist will endeavor
To become a " graduate."

Fortunate and happy Miners !
Finding all their troubles " ore,"
They " assay " to be " refiners."
But they linger one year more
Than the others, who with sadness
After four years disappear,
Taking first with greatest gladness
The degree that costs so dear.

* FRATERNITIES. *

"The friends thou hast, and their adoption tried, Grapple them to thy soul with hoops of steel."

SOMEWHERE in the heart of man is an instinctive leaning to the mysterious and secret. We see this in every part of the world, and from the earliest times. Fraternities, as the college secret societies are called, are but the natural outgrowth of man's tendency to the unknown.

No idea can be more beautiful and perfect than an association of men, of like minds and tastes, bound by a common tie, to form an association in which they attain that perfect brotherhood and intimacy for which we all strive, but which like all things ideal is the impossible. But because these brotherhoods fall short of the ideal it would be wrong to say that they do not fulfil their purpose, the reason of the failure lies not in the fraternity, but in man's own nature.

Fraternities fulfil their purpose as well as can be possible; they bind their men by the same tie, and form intimacies of life-time.

They bind the graduate by this bond of brotherhood to the undergraduate; they make his college a thing, not a name. Many alumni would not come near their college were it not that men are there who have taken their places, and who belong to their fraternities. The realization of this has taken time. Fraternities have not always been encouraged, their path has been one of thorns, not of roses, and some colleges to this day, being blind to facts, forbid the advent of fraternities.

For many years it was considered little short of a crime by college faculties to belong to one of the tabooed organizations, but like all good things, fraternities flourished under oppression, and became at last too strong to be put down.

The fraternity system, as it exists at the present day, was originated, when in 1776 the Phi Beta Kappa Fraternity was founded at William and Mary College. This was only an honorary society, but with the modifications of years this is the fraternity system as it exists at the present day.

The Fraternity system, as represented at Lehigh, was originated when on December 22, 1869, the Phi Kappa Sigma Fraternity granted a Chapter to be called the Sigma. This Chapter existed alone until on February 22, 1872, the Psi Chapter of the Chi Phi Fraternity was established. The same year also saw the establishment of a Chapter, the Iota Kappa Alpha, a fraternity which did not confine its membership to college men. In 1874 this fraternity disbanded, many of the men joining other fraternities. In this year, also, the now defunct Society of Upsilon Beta established a Chapter at Lehigh, whose members, upon the disbandment of the fraternity established the Pi Chapter of Delta Tau Delta, in 1874.

In 1876 the Pennsylvania Delta Chapter of Phi Delta Theta was established, but existed only a short time.

In 1877 an organization called "The True Knights of Columbia" was founded at Lehigh, and its organization was taken to the University of Pennsylvania. A little later it changed its name to Alpha Delta Mu, and in 1878 became a Chapter of the now deceased fraternity of Delta Beta Phi, which fraternity soon followed the example of Iota Kappa Alpha and Upsilon Beta by disbanding, and many of the members joined other fraternities.

The college during the years 1876-79 being very low, the Sigma Chapter of Phi Kappa Sigma returned its charter to the fraternity, being reduced to one man. The Psi of Chi Phi had but three men, and Delta Tau Delta was but little better off, but in 1879, with the advent of the Class of '83, good fraternity material appeared, and brought new men to the almost dying Chapters. Since that time there has been plenty of material, as may be seen from the number of fraternities, who are not only represented, but flourish. After the disbandment of Delta Beta Phi, Chi Phi and Delta Tau Delta existed alone, until the establishment in 1881, as the Phi Theta Psi, of the Eta of Psi Upsilon.

In 1882 the Alpha Rho Chapter of the Alpha Tau Omega was established, and is now second in the order of establishment of living chapters of Lehigh.

In 1883 a chapter of the Delta Phi Fraternity was granted to six petitioners at Lehigh, and the Chapter established shortly after.

In the year 1881 a petition was presented to the Psi Upsilon Fraternity for a Chapter at Lehigh, the petition was not granted, and the petitioners, adopting the name and organization of a deceased society at Yale, called themselves the Eta Chapter of Phi Theta Psi. They continued their exertions to obtain a chapter of Psi Upsilon, but were unsuccessful until May 24, 1883, when the petition was granted, and the Chapter was established February 22, 1884.

In 1883 an attempt was made to re-establish the Sigma of Phi Kappa. A postgraduate with two Freshmen received the charter, but initiated no other men, and in 1885 the charter was returned.

In June, 1884, Theta Delta Chi established the Nu Deuteron Charge; in 1885 the Lehigh Chapter of Delta Upsilon, the non-secret society, and in 1886 the Pi Chapter of Sigma Nu, hitherto a purely Southern fraternity, appeared at Lehigh. This year the Pi Chapter of Delta Tau Delta, having become dissatisfied with the policy of the Fraternity resigned, and formed the local fraternity of Beta Beta.

Early in 1886 the Beta Chi Chapter of Phi Gamma Delta was founded, but kept its existence secret until February 5, 1887, when its existence was made known in due form. During the Christmas holidays of 1886-87 the Sigma Phi Fraternity, which had not granted a charter for twenty-nine years, granted a chapter to the fraternity of Beta Beta, to be called the Alpha Chapter of Pennsylvania, and on the evening of February 5 it was established with proper ceremonies.

On the evening of April 15, 1887, the fraternity of Phi Delta Theta, re-established the chapter formerly existing here, as the Pennsylvania Eta Chapter, this making the tenth fraternity having an active chapter at Lehigh.

THE GYM.

O, a wonderful man he seemed forsooth
As he led the "Fresh" in their drill,
In a beautiful garment of blue and red,
Which his athletic legs didn't fill,
While his sinewy arms, in gestures wild,
Revolved like a Dutch wind mill.

As he gracefully twirled the Indian clubs,
With an art no words can declare,
Methought I could venture to do my drill
As had been the custom there.
But his eagle eye flashed a dangerous light
And he wrathfully cried:

"Do you dare to come into this gymnasium when I am drilling the Freshman class and to handle the apparatus? Please, walk out, sir, and hereafter recognize in me the Voodoo who runs this Department of Physical Culture."

Ah! there was no poetry there.

❖❖ A VOICE FROM SHANTY HILL. ❖❖

THE goats of Shanty Hill were assembled on the bank overlooking the athletic grounds. An old goat, whose extended experience with tin cans and show bills rendered him particularly fit to preside over the assembled flocks, spoke thus: "Nannies and Williams, you have been called together to discuss measures for stopping the inroads which yonder institution is making in the domain of our ancestors. The period is still green in the memories of many of us"—a Bethlehem goat was never known to die excepting as a substitute for the innocent and sportive lamb—"when we roamed unrestrained in our native wilds. But, alas, that day is no more! Where we were wont to fatten on the hoop-skirts of Bethlehem dames and maidens, now spreads a noble park studded with buildings, each one of which has borne its share in producing our common calamity. With the completion of each one, new hordes arrive to drive us farther from the scenes of our forefathers. They trample down the little pasturage they have left us. Let our patriarchs speak."

A goat that had been quietly chewing a peg marked "J + 23," immediately stopped and addressed the herd: "What our leader has said is true. We must strike a blow at the source of our troubles. Let us find means of doing this and our problem is solved. Allow me to say that in my estimation, nothing can tend more to promote our end, than the present system of allowing no cuts and excusing no absences excepting for sickness. Sooner or later an epidemic must result which will carry away these interlopers and leave us to enjoy our right to pasture where we please." Having spoken thus he resumed the peg he had left.

A young goat now suggested, "Give Jim another 'Janitor's room' and the whole business will flunk out by the end of the Freshman year." This remark met with disfavor, and a committee was appointed to bump said young goat.

A more sedate animal then addressed the herd: "I heartily agree with Madam de Coolicon's goat" referring to the first speaker "in his remarks; but to the goat de Colicon's suggestion I would add that if Billy were granted the more extended privileges for which he is struggling in the way of ability to charge and less work to do, a good acre of ground would be gained. Then in addition to his present list of taxable articles, let him add those which would most naturally come next, wear and tear of floors, use of air coming through the patent ventilators, use of toilet room, etc., and let the knowledge he imparts be strictly limited to—Hum! add water and go ahead."

Long and animated were the discussions, and many the schemes devised for reducing the prosperity of the obnoxious University. Scarcely a department escaped. At least a dozen goats were determined to be heard at the same time in connection with "the department of physical culture." But it was universally agreed that no one thing was so likely to help them as the "no cuts" system. That it was a barbarous system physically and morally could not be denied; but the advantage to be secured to the coming goat by striking a serious blow at the growth of the University, was sufficient to justify any means leading to this end.

A committee of three was, therefore, appointed to draw up resolutions. After due deliberation, they presented the following:

WHEREAS, We, the goats of Shanty Hill, are fast being driven from our native soil by the rapid growth of the University and the consequent growth of the town,

Resolved, That we, the goats of Shanty Hill shall, individually and collectively, advocate by every means in our power the "no cuts" system, which is at this time being enforced at said University, as a sure method of hampering the rapid growth of that institution and the further progress of civilization in our domain.

* COLLEGE * ENCYCLOPEDIA. *

ALCOVE.—That part of the Library used by Seniors and the EPITOME Board.

BALD-HEADED.—This expression is not that, sometimes used to designate a certain row of seats at the theater; nor does it mean a lack of hair, except in the sense of being a very close shave. As used at Lehigh it means “passed on the skin of your teeth.” Its exact equivalent in Arabic characters is 6.000 —cipher to infinity.

BOOK-WORK.—Signing your name in Swain’s Autograph Album.

BOSEY, SOMETIMES TEDDY.—A heavy-weight used as ballast by the Class of ’88, and as a sand-bag by Terrel.

CRAWL.—Synonymous with “cave;” “shuyst your ante,” “drop,” “go under,” etc., means defeat, withdrawal, retreat.

CAT.—A domestic animal, nocturnal or semi-nocturnal in its habits, treacherous and kittenish in disposition, and very fond of scratching. Numerous in Bethlehem.

CHARLIE’S.—The common name for the Toxocological laboratory connected with the University.

COLLARED.—Caught in the act.

DAN’S.—See Fatz.

DRUNKOMETER.—An instrument for determining how much liquid a tank humanis contains. The most primitive drunkometer is a crack in the floor, or a chalk-line. An improved style is a pair of ordinary calipers with which the dimensions of the head are taken at regular intervals. An increase in the diameter of the head shows that the tank is approaching fullness. A common form is a row of chairs. This style is used at Charlie's.

FRESH.—The gentlemen who have been at College less than one year are Fresh. Any one who in the felicitous exuberance of his irrepressible genius inflicts himself on the public, is fresh."

FATZ.—A physical laboratory where students meet to demonstrate that the angles of incidence and of reflection are equal to each other.

FLUNK.—Definition superfluous.

GAG.—The word used at Lehigh for a joke of any kind.

GYM.—The Freshman play-house.

HARDY.—But one specimen in existence. Its chief characteristic is toughness.

HETEROGENEOUS SLAPDASHERY.—An extremely humorous poem, containing descriptions of Cop, Benny, Billy, Harry, Eddy, Flat-Foot Joe, Shoddy, Dutchie, Tommy, etc.

JIM.—General supe and tale-bearer.

KID.—Two of these young (scape) goats are kept at the University. They are deliberate little bucks and both Billy's.

KNOCK HIM COLD.—To make a perfect recitation.

LAB.—The College work-house. Supposed to have been erected for the use of Dougherty.

OFF.—(Pos., off; comp., away off; super., clear off.) This word is thought by students in general to be a perfect description of any Professor or Instructor in the University.

PONY.—A domestic animal too well known to need description.

PETE, SOMETIMES PETIE.—A very numerous class of bipeds, terrestrial, and omniverous. Three specimens are kept at the University.

The first specimen Petie Wilkensi was captured in Germany. It is affectionate and playful in disposition, but is noisy and has a very annoying whine. It is easily quieted by the administration of beer, sauer-kraut, and pretzels, of which the animal is passionately fond.

A very interesting animal is the young Petie Addisoni, on exhibition in the Mechanical Engineering Department of the Lehigh University. It is a very lively animal and sometimes becomes so obstreperous as to necessitate gagging. It is by no means timid and once ventured into the midst of the choir during the singing of a hymn. It began imitating the singers making a peculiar, discordant noise, causing the congregation to smile. The intervention of the leader of the choir prevented any serious disturbance.

A third specimen is the Pete Reesi, remarkable on account of an unique growth of hair on its upper lip, no trace of which is found on the other specimens. This animal has been taught to perform very creditably with the lacrosse stick.

POPPY.—One example is an instructiverous animal, having the integument highly surcharged with electricity. Draws lots to see who shall flunk.

Another specimen is the Poppy Doo-tle, a frail-looking plant with a slender willowy stalk which seems always straining itself to reach the stars.

RANK.—A qualifying adjective equivalent to slimy. Often used in describing '87's EPITOME.

SEEMPLY.—Equivalent to o. A contraction of Seemply Seero. The mark often received by "Dutchies' Pets."

SNAP.—A very general term having a peculiar significance at Lehigh. Opinions of various college authorities on the Lehigh snap are here quoted. The Civil Engineers say the Mechanicals have a snap.

The Mechanical Engineers say the Civils have a snap. The above, together with personal experience, cause us to believe that less than seven hours' work at the University is a snap.

SHANTY HILL.—An elevated portion of South Bethlehem overlooking the Lehigh University Athletic Grounds. It is the site of many elegant suburban villas. In its magnificent park, goats and Civil Engineers roam at will.

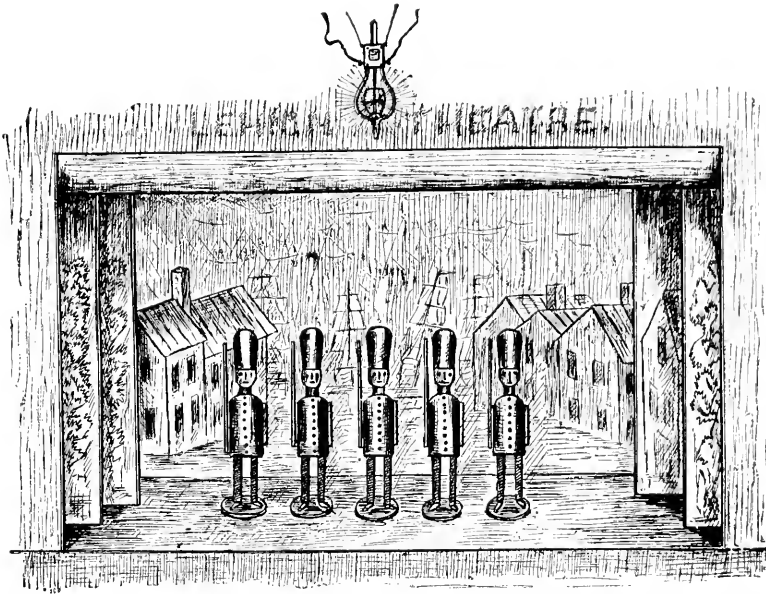

TEN.—The reward for a perfect recitation. Also, a pressing invitation to call on "Prex." Monday before 11 o'clock.

UP.—A very significant expression meaning that the victim has been asked to recite.

WOODEY.—The only specimen ever in existence is now kept at Lehigh. Characteristics cheek and lung power. Ambitious to become an Athletic Manager.

YANKED.—Requested to recite.

✱ THE + PRESS + GANG. ✱

Students awaken,
 Books are forsaken,
 Front seats are taken,
 Duryea has come.
 Duryea is charming,
 Young men disarming,
 With haste alarming
 Freshmen succumb.
 Amorous student,
 Very imprudent,
 Does what he shouldn't,
 Goes on the stage.
 What would his Ma say?
 What would his Pa say?
 Soon he'll be blasé.

Carter, the bold one,
 Hoehling, the old one,
 Wadleigh, the cold one,
 Dance the ballet.
 Farquhar, the tall one,
 Masser, the small one,
 Flirt to appall one
 Right in the play.
 With laughter splitting
 At clothes misfitting.
 They're unremitting
 In gallantry.
 Every one's care is
 Mashing the fairies.
 And each one tarries,

If you would know him, look at this page. Chorus girls pretty, hoping to see.

❖❖ RESOLUTIONS. ❖❖

At a meeting of the class of Eighty Nine, held June 2, 1886, the following resolutions were adopted :

WHEREAS, It was our intention to defer the taking of our class picture until the Sophomore year in order to prevent¹ an engagement with the class of Eighty Eight ; but

WHEREAS, Without our knowledge all arrangements had been made by our managers,² the class of Eighty Seven, to have it taken in our Freshman year,³ and

WHEREAS, The picture when taken excelled all previous Freshman class pictures both with regard to grouping⁴ and detail,⁵ and

WHEREAS, The class of Eighty Nine, in following up her custom of originating⁶ new ideas, thinks that it is high time⁷ for us to originate some new scheme ; therefore be it

Resolved, That we do humbly implore the EPILOGUE Board of the class of Eighty Eight to publish our excellent likeness,⁸ promising that our request being complied with, each member of our class will purchase five volumes of said annual.

This publication will fill a long felt want, for many a time has a man reported incorrect results simply from an utter lack of a record of the results of previous analyses. In this little effusion we will endeavor to give a correct list of all analyses made of all ores, etc., since Foote examined Colby's book's. These results can always be found on file at the desk of the Editor-in-Chief. But his assistants will endeavor to furnish all needful information.

MANY will, perhaps, think that it is not quite the proper thing to report the results of other men's work. But a moment's reflection will show them how wrong this is. Gaze on the noble forms of those who have gone before, and the results of their labors. Look at the spillage and evaporation factors calculated by our editor-in-chief. Look at the noble guess work performed by our business manager in the analysis of mineral water. In conclusion, we would say this paper is purely for the use of laboratory students. All records can be consulted free at the desk of the editor-in-chief, and not at the risk of expulsion.

DROPS FROM THE WASH BOTTLE.

Reese, '89, has invested in the iron wire, formerly belonging to the Laboratory.

Honeyman, '88, sold Dougherty, '89, a platinum rod at 200 per cent gain. There were 50 shares out on the rod.

March 23. The twenty-first nest of beakers procured by Crawford, '88, K. K. K., remains intact.

Honeyman, '88, will soon bring his brother into the Quantitative room to assist him in the arduous duties of Editor of the GAZETTE.

The room for Dougherty, '88, in the Laboratory will soon be ready for occupancy. This room will contain a balance for his own special use.

Kellogg, '89, has a bronze like Dougherty's whose result he will report on Tuesday.

McIlvain, '88, and Stokes, '88, are going to start a small Laboratory of their own. They each have invested in a set of carbon tubes.

Neiman, '88, and Lewis, '88, have the same Iron Ore.

Perry, '88, has the same Ilmenite that Thruston had. We expect Thruston's reply in a few days, when Perry will report.

Hesse, A. C. '89, has patented a method for making solutions acid by the addition of ammonia.

Miner, '88, has a limestone that looks like the editor-in-chief's, whose results he did not report, and hence got it right.

Neiman, '88, will visit the Laboratory on Tuesday of next week. He will be there from 2 to 3 P.M.

Flack, '88, found 10 per cent. sulphur in C. P. Na_2CO_3 yet he only found .84 per cent. in his coal, fused with this Na_2CO_3 . His coal was the same as Honeyman's.

L. P. Gaston, '88, is about to publish a new manual on chemistry.

Lewis, '88, has been convinced by Mackintosh that TiO_2 has different chemical properties from Na_2CO_3 plus SiO_2 .

Neiman, '88, wants to know what you get in your Rochelle.

Dougherty, '89, prevents a basic acetate from running over by holding his hand over the mouth of the flask.

Miner's box of seasand has been repleted, and assisted by Kellogg will supply the Laboratory.

Mackintosh has informed the students that Miner's steam bath can be used as an example for the Laboratory.

Many samples of the following Iron Ore have been given out this term, so we therefore print the analysis.

SiO_2 , 72.45 per cent.
 Fe_2O_3 , 43.51 per cent.
 Al_2O_3 , 8.1 per cent.
 H_2O , 7.12 per cent.
 SO_2 , 5.25 per cent.
 P_2O_5 , 10.11 per cent.
 MnO , 15.02 per cent.
 MgO , 25. per cent.
 CaO , .002, per cent.

From the German.

DEAR MR. GILLETTE: —

I write this letter not from choice, but because I am compelled to. Two hours later I will still be writing it—but I hope I will be nearer the end than I am now. I have nothing to tell you, except that I hope this will be the last letter I will ever have to write in this language. This may be news to you, it is not to me. I spend more time on German with less satisfaction than any other lesson I have. I do not know why, but it is true. I am fostering a little pet I own—my German condition from last term—I will sell it cheap.

Your Friend,

H. S. N--M--N, '88.

THE EXCUSE.

I woke from sleep the most profound
To hear the melancholy sound,
Of Winter rain.

I heard the bell's remorseless chime,
Saying to students, " Chapel time."
With bitter pain

I thought of absences incurred
And restlessly I turned and stirred
And thought to rise.

But when upon the clouded pane
I saw the drops of frozen rain,
My sleepy eyes,

In spite of all my efforts, closed
And lazily I lay and dozed
Just half asleep.

In fancy I could see the street,
And pavement glazed with ice and sleet,
That hill so steep

Up which the hurrying students pass,
Was slippery as polished glass.
I saw them creep

Close to the welcome wooden rail,
And thus with difficulty scale
The icy hill.

And then my senses slipped away
And when the whistles told midday,
I slumbered still.

Next Monday unconcernedly
I wrote this note that you will see
In full below.

SOUTH BETHELEHEM, PA., March 15, 1887.

R. A. L.—DEAR SIR—I was absent from all the University exercises on Friday the 12th inst., on account of a severe sore throat.

Very respectfully,

'89.

On Tuesday with the solemn mien,
On State occasions only seen,
But which all know,

The President did say, "I fear
An epidemic rages here.
Last week there were

More than a hundred students who
Were ill. Some chronic cases too
Always occur.

I'm very sorry, gentlemen,
That you are so afflicted." Then
We were dismissed.

*Tramp, tramp, tramp,
Through the streets of the dusty town,
A-searching for the bubble
Called by silly man "Renown."
While at ev'ry step your body
Seems heavy as solid lead,
As you look for some old "duffer,"
Who will "tumble" to an "Ad."*

II.

*Think, think, think,
As the awful facts arise—
The book will cost a thousand,
And you have but two I's.
And you grind your teeth in horror,
And tear your lovely hair,
And think of the blest hereafter,—
"There'll be no 'Ads.' up there!"*

WANAMAKER'S.

DID^s you ever think why Wanamaker's is the biggest Dry Goods and General Store in this Country, probably in the World?

Such things do not happen by chance ; there's always a reason for them. This store is now so big and is all the time growing bigger because it is in a measure your store. You are always made welcome and comfortable. There are waiting rooms, reading rooms, retiring rooms, and places where bundles and packages may be left, and all of these are for your use.

And the prices are Wanamaker prices. All goods bought with wise regard for real value and the state of the market, and sold at a fair advance on that bed-rock cost.

The Wanamaker Book Department has grown famously under such treatment. More books are sold here at retail than in any other establishment in the country. We treat Books just as we treat any other goods ; tell the truth about them and put no fancy prices on them. BOOK NEWS (published monthly, 5 cents ; 50 cents a year) gives the Wanamaker prices on books and tells you just what you want to know about them. You can't be misled either as to the matter or value of a book if you lean on BOOK NEWS. May save its year-cost on a single book.

The Mail Order System is of great advantage to out of town shoppers. You can write for anything we have—samples or goods—and our trained buyers will select for you better than you might do for yourself. When writing for goods say whether you'd like them sent by mail, express or freight.

CATARRH REMEDY
— AND —
BLOOD PURIFIER!

A Sure and Never-Failing Remedy for the Prevalent and Disagreeable Disease—Catarrh.

The Best Remedy in the Market as a Blood Purifier and Cure for all Scrofulous Diseases and Eruptions caused by Impure Blood.

PLEASE WRITE FOR TESTIMONIALS AND OTHER INFORMATION.

CAUSES OF CATARRH.

SOME persons are more liable to Catarrhal diseases than others.—When a person not in perfect health takes cold and when the mucus membrane of the nose, throat, stomach and intestinal canal is congested and irritable, colds excite and increase the congestion and irritation, often causing inflammation and ulceration, which does not get well, or cure itself because the congestion and irritation of the mucus membrane is constantly excited and perpetuated by the continued use of irritating food. Every fresh cold aggravates and increases the disease. While the cold may be cured the effects remain, until a subsequent cold settles in the same place, when finally the disagreeable, offensive and dangerous forms of Catarrh set in. Unless a remedy is used that will strike at the root of the disease and eliminate the poison from the blood and allay the irritation, the sufferer soon becomes offensive to himself and disagreeable to all those with whom he comes in contact.

SATCHEL DETECTIVE CAMERA,

[PATENTED SEPTEMBER 14, 1886.]

THE latest achievement in light and compact photographic apparatus. Consisting of a thoroughly practical Camera, meeting every possible requirement, ingeniously disguised as an ordinary hand-satchel. With this Camera the operator is enabled to take pictures at random, by the instantaneous process, while walking in the streets, or while traveling by rail or water. Apart from its elegance of appearance, and its perfection as a photographic Camera, one of the most charming features of this apparatus consists in the extreme ease with which it may be handled. ACID PHOSPHATE,

FOR DYSPEPSIA, MENTAL AND PHYSICAL EXHAUSTION, NERVOUSNESS, DIMINISHED VITALITY, ETC., ETC.

Prepared according to the directions of Prof. E. N. Horsford, of Cambridge.

A preparation of the phosphates of lime, magnesia, potash and iron with phosphoric acid in such forms as to be readily assimilated by the system.

Universally recommended and prescribed by physicians of all schools.

Its action will harmonize with such stimulants as are necessary to take.

It is the best tonic known, furnishing sustenance to both brain and body.

It makes a delicious drink with water and sugar only.

As a Brain and Nerve Tonic.

DR. E. W. ROBERTSON, Cleveland, O., says: "From my experience, can cordially recommend it as a brain and nerve tonic, especially in nervous dyspepsia, etc., etc."

For Wakefulness.

DR. WILLIAM P. CLOTHIER, Buffalo, N. Y., says: "I prescribed it for a Catholic priest, who was a hard student, for wakefulness, extreme nervousness, etc., and he reports it has been of great benefit to him."

In Nervous Debility.

DR. EDWIN F. VOSE, Portland, Me., says: "I have prescribed it for many of the various forms of nervous debility, and it has never failed to do good."

For the Ill-Effects of Tobacco.

DR. C. A. FERNALD, Boston, says: "I have used it in cases of impaired nerve function with beneficial results, especially in cases where the system is affected by the tonic action of tobacco."

❖PREPARATORY SCHOOL❖

FOR

LEHIGH UNIVERSITY.

WM. ULRICH, Principal,

BETHLEHEM, PA.

—REFERENCES.—

R. A. LAMBERTON, LL.D., President of Lehigh University, and any of the Professors belonging to the Faculty of Lehigh University.

IN this school attention is given exclusively to the requirements for admission to Lehigh University. The course is finished when these have been thoroughly mastered. During the past seven years two hundred and two of our scholars have been admitted to the University in full standing.

One advantage which this school has over most other preparatory schools is, that it is near the University, and continually receives from President and Professors such influences and suggestions as help to make the preparatory instruction most thorough and effective.

Twenty pupils will be admitted to the house of the Principal as boarders.

❖SUMMER COURSE❖

In order to enable young men, not sufficiently prepared to pass the June examination of Lehigh University successfully, to pursue the course of studies that will be necessary for them to enter the University in September, it is our custom to establish a Summer Course immediately after the June examination. In this course attention is given to those branches only in which the young men are found deficient, and none will be admitted that have no prospects of passing the coming examinations successfully.

For Catalogues and other information apply to the Principal.

MORAVIAN PAROCHIAL SCHOOL, BETHLEHEM, PA.

In operation for more than a century under the direction of the Moravian
Church of Bethlehem, Pa.

⇒ A DAY SCHOOL FOR BOTH SEXES. ⇐

THE scheme of instruction is comprehensive; embracing every grade from a completely equipped Kindergarten in charge of an experienced teacher, up to a Preparatory Course, which affords young men and young women every facility for the acquirement of a thorough pre-collegiate education.

The sexes are not associated in the class-rooms.

THE PREPARATORY COURSE FOR YOUNG MEN

includes all the requirements for admission to the Lehigh University. Special attention is given to students who wish to be prepared for the entrance examinations.

The Text-books and the methods employed are those recommended by the → FACULTY OF THE UNIVERSITY, ← and the instructor in charge of this department is a University graduate.

The school is endowed by the Moravian Church and hence the terms are liberal.

— Tuition in the Preparatory Course, $60 per annum. —
